Social Intelligence Teams with Accio Data to Offer Clients Industry Tailored Social Media Screening

By utilizing the Social Intelligence Report, Accio's consumer reporting agency (CRA) clients will have the option to seamlessly and compliantly offer online data as part of their background screening packages. With an innovative suite of products and services, Accio Data has chosen to partner with Social Intelligence, the global leader in social media and online consumer reports for over 10 years.

"Social media has been emerging in pre-employment screening," says Accio Data Chief Operating Officer Cody Reeves. "The addition of Social Intelligence as a data provider gives our CRAs yet another tool they can use to better serve their customers."

Bianca Lager, President of Social Intelligence, adds: "We are thrilled to partner with a lead background screening platform provider in Accio Data. Many of our CRA partners are already integrated with Accio so this creates a simplified path for organizations to apply important public data compliantly gathered from online sources."

Screening for areas of risk like violence and intolerance is a vital part of the background check process as organizations across the globe formalize their online screening processes. The Social Intelligence solution has an unblemished record of helping organizations mitigate external risk and improve internal workplace conditions by screening for problematic business-related online behavior.
