

Question

Are employers permitted to use point of collection testing (POCT) in Maryland?

- A. Yes, but for pre-employment testing only
- B. No, point of care testing is not permitted
- C. Yes, all tests can be conducted via POCT

As the drug screening landscape continues to evolve with the advent of states implementing laws permitting the use of medical and/or recreational marijuana, the opioids crisis continues to mount and synthetic drugs continue to flourish we thought the timing was right to focus on enhancing the knowledge of professionals involved with drug screening. We are grateful to the Current Consulting Group for partnering with us to lend their expertise to 'The Drug Screening Challenge.'

THE CURRENT CONSULTING GROUP

The Current Consulting Group, LLC (CCG) is a consulting firm made up of many of the best-known experts in the field of employee screening, each with a depth of knowledge and experience that has resulted from distinguished careers in drug testing, background checks, and other screening services. CCG brings our expertise to the industry by helping employers keep abreast of updates to laws, technology advancements, and shifting public opinions. CCG offers a suite of services that can help your workplace stay compliant, including the most extensive state law database in the industry, CurrentCompliance.org. Visit CurrentConsultingGroup.com to learn more.

This month's question has been contributed by Adam Hall.

Adam Hall is a Senior Consultant for Current Consulting Group with over 15 years of experience in the drug and alcohol testing industry. Throughout his career he has worked closely with third-party administrators and their clients to create successful, compliant drug and alcohol testing programs. Adam also serves as an instructor for a variety of in-person and online DOT and non-DOT training courses.